THE BIG STRIKE SETTLED.

THIRTY THOUSAND IDLE MEN RESUME WORK.

Arbitration to Settle All the Little Differences-The Five Crews Over Which the Trouble Originated Will Be Supported

By the Employes-Other Labor News. Philadelphia, Dec. 28.—The strike of the Reading railway employes was ordered off at an early hour this morning and the men returned to work to-day. Once yesterday the big strike had been declared settled, and again late last night it came within an ace of reaching a happy termination through arbitration. A few sharp words brought the cloud again over the sky, but they soon cleared away this morning. During the afternoon a committee of the men visited by invitation the headquarters of the Reading railway on South Fourth street, and discussed the questions at issue with General Superintendent Sweigard. Tho best of feeling prevailed, and so good were the effects of the meeting considered by the superintendent that he sent out this message to several of the chief officers of the road.

"The strike is settled and mon will return to work," The good news spread quickly and excited considerable comment among those admitted to the secret. But there was still another meeting to be held. During the evening the committee, headed by John Nelly and John Lee, visited the general superintendent's office at Ninth and Green streets, and the disputed matters were again choroughly discussed and the understanding had been reached that the men were to go to work this morning and that the controversy would be settled att award by a committee of the men and representatives of the company. As the conterence was about to break up

Mr. Lee made a remark about the membership of the men's committe. "I will not, of course," said Mr. Sevigard in reply, "treat with the men as Knights of of Labor. They must come as employes of the Reading Rairond company." "That settles it," said Mr. Kelly, and he walked to the door. The other committeemen followed him, and they left the room. The committee then returned to their meeting place in Port Richmond and reported to the convention of employes. After a three hours discussion the strike was declared off, and at I o'clock this morning the men were ordered to return to work.

The five crews over whom the trouble originated are to be supported by financial aid from the employes pending arbitration Everyhedy at Work,

It is believed that the action of the employes' convention in this city yesterday, positively refusing to strike at the dictates of the Knights of Labor, and the sending of new Western National bank, of which Mr. a committee to Port Richmond counselling a Manning was president; Sidney Wobster, settlement of the difficulties, had much to do of New York, one of the ex-secretary's most with bringing about the downfall of the great strike. LIKE A WILD BEAST.

An Unknown Man Found Living in a Cave.

He Speaks a Strange Tongue. NEW YORK, Dec. 28.-Last night an unknown and almost wild man was found lying in a cave that he had made in the wood near Morris park, not far from Jamaica, L. I. The authorities at Jamaica were informed. and officer Smith took him to Jamaica and locked him up in the town hall. He has been asked questions in a half a dozen different languages, but his replies are unintelligible. It was thought that he gave the name of

Hassan. He is very ragged and filthy. The prisoner's cave was found to be about four feet deep, about five feet long and three feet wide. He was found reclining at his ease and smoking. He had arranged a screen of trees on the north side of the cave to keep away the wind. The south side had an opening. He had a fire in the cave and a number of flat stones therein which were heated. It is said he has been there for some time. He was discovered about a week ago by a Ger man living on Wykoff avenue. He has been supplying him with food. His appearance is wild in the extreme and would indicate that he has been burrowing in the earth for some time. Shells of nuts indigenous to the locality were found in the cave. A reporter endeavored to have a conversation with the wild man, but could get nothing definite from him. He is probably a Pole. He told a mar his name was John Henry or Husson. His words are outtural and hardly belong to any language. He will be sent to Barnum's is

MR MANNING'S FUNERAL.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND AND OTHER THE NEW YEAR'S RECEPTION AT THE GREAT OFFICIALS PRESENT.

Funeral Trains Take Thousands to Pay the Last Tribute of Respect to the Late Secretary of the Treasury—A Profusion of Fragrant Flowers-Notes.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 28 .- It was just eight o'clock this morning when the West Shore train bearing the presidential party rolled into the depot. The party were all up, and when the train came to a stand still ex-Mayor Banks, Col. William Rice, Col. C. L. Judson and Erastus Corning boarded it and met the party, which consisted of the president, Col. Lamont and the members of the cabinet, They took carriages and were driven to the executive mansion where breakfast was served for the party. The president boked well but seemed to be greatly depressed by the motive of his visit.

Besides the presidential party there arrived from Washington the following employes of the treasury department: Comptroller Durham, Fourth Anditor Shelby, Supervising Architect Frerer, Ed. Graves, chief of the bureau of engraving and printing; R. S. Miller, chief of the bureau of loans and currency; Chief Clerk Youmans, Assistant Socretary Maynard, Comptroller Trenching. Third Auditor Williams, T. D. Kelleher, Superintendent of the Treasury building Walsh, G. W. Albright and Sixth Auditor McConville,

On the noon train from the Metropolis came over a bundred distinguished men, among whom were ex-mayors Cooper and Grace, Senators Murphy and Daly, Congressman Campbell and Col, John R. Fellows. All the day long until the hour of the funeral trains brought large delegations from every part of the state, and it is doubtful whether the city has ever had such a concourse of prominent people within its gates except on a day of a celebration, Scuutors, assemblymen, congressmen, judges, citizens, all came to pay their tribute of resect to the dead. The body lay in a cloth-covered casket in the parlor of the house, No. 142 Lancister street, the resilence of Mr. James H. Manning, and upon itwere crossed portieres and at the foot a profusion of camelias and white roses. The silver plate bore this inscrintion: Born August 16, 1807.

DANIEL F. MANASIA. Died December 24, 1887. From 9 until 11 a, in, the personal friends of Mr. Manning were permitted to look upon the face of the dead, which appeared life like, save for the impress left by the struggle for life. The callers were from all stations in life, and the men whose names are historical. vied with those whose lot is humble in the astemark of respect to the departed. Late in the foremore array of the out of town cople paid a visit, and as President Cleve and, Col. The pallbearers were the following: Charles J. Canda, of New York, vice president of the intimate friends while at Washington; United States Senator A. P. Gorman, of Maryland; C. N. Jordan, of New York; Congressman Randall, of Philadelphia; Manton Marble, of New York; Judge Rufus W. Peckham, Simon W. Rosendale, of Albany; Erastus Corning, John H. Van Antwerp, of Albany; ex-Senator Roscoe Conkling, of New York, and Pascal P. Pratt, president of the Manufacturers' bank, of Buffalo. The funeral procession proceeded down the street and to St. Paul's church in the block below. At 1:30 o'clock, as the people began to arrive, the organist Mr. George Edgar Oliver, sounded the opening chords of Chopin's march, "Funebre," and then followed a choice program of appropriate music. As the last strains of Gounod's march was concluded, the cortege reached the church and the main doors were opened. The coffin was bourne from the hearse, being met at the entrance by the rector of St. Paul's, the Rev. J. Livingston Reese, Bishop Doane, the Rev. Mr. Prawle, Rev. Dr. E. N. Patter, of Hobart college, the Revs. Dr. Battershell, Caron Robbins.Caron Fulcher, Mr. Swartz, Mr. Woodman, Mr. Kenyon, Mr. Gray, Mr. Chapman and Mr. Selkirk. As the procession marched un the aisle Dr. Reese began the reading of the burial service, beginning, "I Am the Resurrection and the Life." The coffin was placed open the bier which was covered with evergreens and palms. When those composing the procession were seated, the doors were again opened and the side ailes and available spaces were filled. It was the most distinguished gathering of men Albany has ever seen before at a funeral of one of her sons. The chant to the burial psalm, "Lord, let me know my end," was the familiar air by Felton, and was given with fine feeling by the choir of sixty voices. Spohis. "Blessed are the departed" was then

WHITE HOUSE.

Washington Bolles Planning to Meet Mrs. Cleveland at all Hazards-Popularity of the President's Wife-What Mr. Randall Said Concerning the Tarl &

Washington, Dec. 29.—Arrangements are rapidly progressing at the White House for for the New Year's reception, at which, of course, Mrs. Cleveland will be the central figure. While Col. Wilson will be likely to superintend the details of the reception, in point of fact the fair mistress of the mansion will supervise everything and decide all the delicate points of precedence and any other knotty problems that may arise. Though the fashion of making New Year's calls generally is on the wane in Washington, each succeeding year sees a greater crush at the White House receptions,

The great popularity of Mrs Clovoland with all classes was nover better illustrated than at the levee held last New Year's day, when the doors of the White House had to be closed, leaving a crowd on the concrete outside who were forced to go away disappointed. Mrs. Cleveland regretted the necessity for this action, but the ongagements of herself and the Indies who received with her made it compulsory. Bearing this fact in mind, the young ladies of Washington, all of whom entertain the warmest admiration for Mrs. Cleveland, have descended like a rloud of locusts upon the senators and representatives of their acquaintance, with a domand that they shall except them to the rereption during the time reserved for the nembers of both houses.

Unable to resist the appeals which have been urged, a hundred promises have been made the fulfilment of which will be denanded to the full letter. A representative who has promised to inroduce five charming young ludies during the fifteen minutes affected to congress, said to-day: "I am sure I do not know how I am to keep my word, but I could not resist the appeals made to me. I think Mrs. Clayeland. has bewitched all the girls in Washington," "Senator Hiscoele's Sugar Tarlff Views. Washington, Dec. 29.--Senator Frank well known Republicans, among them two or bluce representatives, Mr. Hiscock said in in effect. "All we have to do this session is to fix the sugar men, the sugar producers of the sou h, and give them a bounty. Take the curdons tax off sugar and ; ive a chine of or competation and at the same time protect, our home industries; then our hand will be clean and we have no complications. We can join is sues between the senate and the house at once, taking up the gauntlet the president threw down in his message, and then we will win. The message was a bold, straightforward state paper, and serves the purpose of drawing the party lines in the most definite manner. It satisfies both parties except the protection wing of the Democracy. Lam in favor of making war on these lines from this time forward, and believe the Republicans will come out victorious," The question as to what will be done with the sugar tax is likely to cause no little friction in the ranks of the Republicans. Many of them favor the abolition of the tariff on this article of general consumption, and the substitution of a hounty to the cane growers of the south, as Senator Hiscock suggests, This seems to be the only available way to remove this tax and at the same time preserve the consistent policy of protection to American industries, which will be the strong plank in the party platform in the coming campaign. There are, however, many Republicans who have grave doubts as to the constitutionality of any law under which a certain class of producers shall be paid bounties from the public treasury in order to foster the industries in which they are engaged. Those who held the convictions will strenuously oppose any bounty feature of the tariff bill, and the controversy developed will no doubt prove decidedly interesting.

Randall and the President Talk Tariff. Washington, Dec. 29,-Last week, at the request of the president, it is said, Mr. Randall called at the White House. The subject of the conversation was the tariff, and the influence the proposed abolition of the Liternal revenue system would have on it. After the interview Mr. Randall said to a distinguished southern representative:

"A turiff bill will be introduced in the house that will not affect the industrial interests or disturb the business of the country. It will pass the house, and if it fails to become a law the responsibility will be with the Republican senate. It will provide for the repeal of the tobacco and the fruit-brandy tax. A bill, too, very much like the Henderson bill of the Forty-ninth congress, will pass the house. There is a misapprehension as to the president's position on the internal revenue question, and he may deem it necessary to send a supplemental message to congress on the subject. He does not oppose the repeal of the tobacco and brandy tax, and, furthermore, he believes that the internal revenue laws are oppressive as enforced under existing legislation."

Mr. Randall is now in Philadelphia, and will be in New York next Friday at the Manhattan club reception to the Democratic state

They assert that their litle to the territory is just as valid es their title to the land around Talequah. in the senate the whole time is being consumed in hearing evidence on contested seats. A great deal of interest is centered in congress and the proposed Indian legislation. All the white men who have married among the Indians, and the majority of the halfbreeds are in favor of opening the territory and allotting the Inds. They see in this action a rapid rise in the value of their holdings. The pure Indean element is against allottment and boomers, and will insist that the government stand by its treatie, with the five nations.

CHAPTER XV.

THE OLD NEGRO JAIL AT CHATTANOOGA The sufferings of northern prisoners in the south constitutes probably the most terrible chapter in the history of the war. Attempts to soften the fearful story have met with slight success. The lot of the prisoner of war is always deplorable, as accommodations are scanty and the hard-But the Union prisoners in the south suffered more than is usual in military The southern states were slenderly supplied with means for the care of bodies of troops numbered by thousands; the northern armies were pressing severely and tightening the blockade by sea and land with the express design of depriving them of necessaries for prosecuting the war, and in case of scarcity it was natural that northern plain the story that follows. I have hesitated in regard to telling it at all; but there is at least one good reason for recording all that the proprieties of language will permit-a reason which also goes far to account for the full horrors experienced. Nothing better shows the spirit of the institution of slavery, and the debasing effect it produces on the master class. Those in whose power we now fell had been used to seeing men, women and children publicly sold, whipped, hunted with dogs, or shut up like wild beasts in dens. With such experiences they would not be likely to care much for the sufferings of enemies, whom they had come to regard as the friends of the enslaved race. Accordingly it is in the negro prisons that our band found

The story of the little, old, Chattanooga prison cannot be fully told. Terrible hardships which and to be lived through in agonies of shuddering disgust, and in utterly helpless disregard of the decenvies of life-a daily and unceasing combination of pain and loathing-can hardly be told by one triced to another, much less spread on the cold printed page. The reader will reserve to that for every painful thing related, a dozen more are behind, winch care not be named. Let it be understood that there is no exaggeration. Photograp is accuracy, within the limits already indicated, is aimed at TI's worst of all the prisons has long since becar swept away; but its memory will never grow wint while one of its hardess victure survives. The story rests not alone on my evidence, but is established by sworn to timory published in the war records. conductor, called a guard of eight men and led me for some distance through the streets of Chattanaous Two of the Confederate soldiers linked arms with me, one on each side, two walked in front and four followed behind. I could not help telling the captain that they took better care of our men then we did of theirs: that I had once guarded a Georgian a long distance without any help, and with no bandouffs on him. He del not resent the implied represely, only saying that they meent to make sure of me! length we came to a little brack building. surrounded by a high board fence. It stood, as I ferried long afterward, on Lookou! street between Pourth and Fifth. the back of the jail was built into the fall while the front was level with the surface of the ground. The jail had two stories with two rooms in each story. 5 was quite high for its length and breadth. The jader and family lived to the upper and lower rooms at the north end, and the rooms at the south were the prisonthe lower being entered only from the upper, and that in turn only from the jailer's room. This prison when built was intended for the accommodation of negroes by their humane owners. Another and much larger prison, in which were confined the great majority of white offenders and afterward of war prisoners,

Swims, the jailer, was a peculiar character. He was old, perhaps 60, with abundant white hair, and a dry and withered face. His voice was always keyed on a whining tone, except when some great cause, such as the requests of prisoners for an extra bucket of water, aroused his ire, when it rose to a hoarse scream. Avarice was a strong trait. He seemed to think his accommodations vastly too good for negroes and "Yankees," and that when admitted to his lost as has ever been known. hospitality they should be thankful and give as little trouble as possible. With such notions it is easily seen how much he could add to the sufferings of prisoners. One thing favorable was that he was fond of a dram, and when indulging became very talkative, revealing many things that we could not otherwise have

We halted for a moment at the camp fire of the guard outside the gate; then Swims came out, grumbling about their being disturbed so much, and, unlocking the gate, admitted us. We crossed the yard, ascended the long outside stairway, and from an outside landing entered the bedroom. From this a door opened into the prison. The room was quite small, square, and entirely destitute of furniture of any kind except a long ladder, which lay on the floor. There were five or six old, miserable looking men in the room, whose clothes hung in tatters, and who presented a terribly starved, dirty and wretched appearance. It was a dreadful place, and I shuddered at the idea of taking up my abode in such a den. But I soon found I was not to be so highly favored, and a little more experience was sufficent to make me look almost with

Said the jailer to the captain: "Where shall I put him? "Below, of course," was the prompt reply.

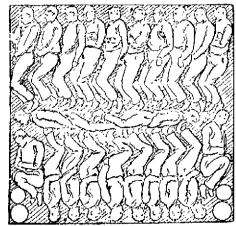

THE SWIMS JAIL AT CHATTANOOGA. The failer advanced to the middle of the room, and kneeling down, took a large key from his pocket, and applying it to a hole in the floor gave it a turn and then with a great effort raised a ponderous trap door right at my feet. A rush of hot air, and a stifling stench as from the mouth of the pit, smote me in the face and 1 involuntarily recoiled backward; but the bayonels of the guard were behind and there was no escape. The ladder was then thrust down, and, long as it was, it no more than penetrated the great depth. The wretches whose voices I could hear confusedly marmuring below were ordered to stand from under, and I was compelled to descend into what seemed more like the infernal regions than any place on earth. It was hard to find the steps of the ladder —for the candle of the jailer gave almost no light, and I had on handcuffs; but I went down, feeling for each step, to a depth of some thirteen feet. I stepped off the ladder, treading on human beings I could not discern, and wedged in as best f might. Then the ladder was slowly drawn up, and in a moment more the trap fell with a dull and heavy sound that seemed crushing down on my heart, and every ray of light vanished. I was shut into a living tomb—buried alive!

I could feel men around me and hear their breathing in the darkness, so that I knew the den was crowded full. Though it was night and cool outside, the heat here was more than that of a tropic noon, and the perspiration soon oozed from every pore. The feted air and the stench made me for a time deadly sick, and, worst of all, there was an almost unbearable sense of suffocation. I wondered if it could be possible that they would leave human beings in such a place till death came in this horrible form—death, which could not be long delayed. I thought of the Black Hole of Calcutta, where so many Englishmen were sanocated in one terrible night by a savage East Indian; I had beard of negroes being burned alive or whipped to death in our own south; but these horrors were always, I supposed, meant as venreance for some tiendish outrage. Yet of all the forms of death, that by slow suffoection had always appeared most dreadful, and this now seemed imminent.

As I had been brought to this place in the dark, I knew nothing of its character, and after the first moment of stupefaction, re-olved to explore its size and nature. No one of my companions had yet spoken mane of I to them. Whether they were I ack or white, soldiers or citizens, chained the myself, or with the free use of their bands, I could not tell, and I scarcely liked to ask, lest the answer should add new misery. I jambed my way through the living throng to the wall and feltalong it to learn if there was door or win-Cow. There was no door, the only on- princes were being sent down. The Tentrance to the fearful place being by the processes eviction; "Pon't put any more trap door down which I came. Neither down here. We'te full! We'll die if any were there any windows, but I found two more are put down. licles in the wall, apposite each other, each little more than a foot square, and Eded with three rows of iron bars. The walls, as could be fold at the holes, were very timek, being made of an innercase of oak logs and a brick wall outside. Even in day time, these holes gave little light, for one was close under the outside stairway already described, and the other below the level of the ground. Yet a little air could come through the thick set bars, and served to revive nee-making it possible to endure life here for a short time.

When the first shock had passed and I became partially inured to the terrible oppression of the atmosphere, I fried to ascertain something of the condition of my companions. The most fearful description of this place of terment that can be given is contained in the plain cold figures—the number of the prise ters and the size and manner of their locanic. Defore I entered there were fouriers white men and one negro. This exculper the number was increased to nincton and soon after to twenty-two, at wheth, int it remained for many days. The boom was just thirteen feet square, are about the same in height. These properties are not approximations, but are meant to bo accepted exactly and literally. The entire furniture of the room consisted of four buckets for water and slops! And here twenty-two men had to remain day and night, with no resplie, and no power to leave the room for any purpose, for more than two weeks! It was possible, as will be seen by reference to the accompanying sketch, for all to lie down at once; but it required the nicest fitting and no small degree of crowding. There were two rows of ten persons each, occupying the space of thirteen feet, and two persons could rest between the feet of the rows. But when one turned, all in his row were obliged to turn likewise; and as all were chained in some manner, the crowding, the exclamations, and the clanking of chains in the black darkness of this dungeon presented—especially at night—as good a representation of the realms of the

MANNER OF SLEEPING IN SWIMS' JAIL. My prison mates received me very kindly and answered questions freely. I had no hesitation in telling them who I was, and this at once won their confidence. They were Union men from various parts of East Tennessee. Many of them had been in prison for six or englatmontas, and the onences charged varied from that of simply preferring the old government to the I new, slave built Confederacy, to that of bridge burning, or of being helpers of the Union army. The latter were called spies. One of them was blind, the Confederates accusing him of only feigning blindness bur from all I could observe, I think it wa · real. I was greatly interested in the one negro in this miserable place. He was very friendly and anxious to be of service to us in any possible way. Some days after my arrival he was taken out and brought back again after an hour or so, seeming to be in a good deal of suffering. His story, which he gave as if it were the most ordinary thing in the world, moved me to indigna-tion which I would gladly have expressed in some way more vigorous than words.

He was arrested and imprisoned on suspicion of being a fugitive slave. The law in such cases did not put the burden of proof on the person arresting, but on the negro. Aleck had been treated as law and gustom provided. He was first carefully examined, and whipped till he made some kind of confession; then he was put in jail, and advertised in accordance with that confession. If a master appeared and proved property, he was obliged to pay all jail and whipping fees, costs of advertising and a liberal reward to the person arresting; and then, usually flogging the negro unmercifully for the trouble and expense he had caused, he could take his property. But if no answer came to the advertisement, it was taken for granted that the negro lied, and he was brought out and flogged into a new confession, after which he was remanded to jail and again advertised. Thus they continued, if no master appeared, flogging and advertising, for a year, when the poor fellow was sold at public auction, and the proceeds applied to pay the expenses of all these barbarous inflictions! No trial was allowed by which the negro might prove himself free. When once arrested, unless he happened to have some powerful white friend, his doom was scaled; and in this way, in the old slavery times, many a freed negro found his way back into bond-

No answer having been received to the advertisement for Aleck, he had been taken out for one of his periodical whippings. He had now been in this prison for seven months, and was to remain five more, with no prospect but that of being sold into perpetual bondage. We pitied him from the bottom of our hearts, and are glad to believe that, if he lived, the triumph of the Union armies relieved him from his dreadful position. These things were not all ascertained on the same even ing, though several of them were, for I did all I could to get a complete mastery of my surroundings, that I might be ready for any possibility of escape. But the chances were slight indeed. The floor and the walls were of solid oak, many inches thick; a circle of guards was all the time on duty outside; and the only egress was by means of a ladder put down in the presence of the jailer and a strong

As we were talking in the darkness, we heard the tramp of many feet on the outside starway, with the clank of chains, and listened to learn what next was coming to pass. The noise came overhead, and then the trap door opened and a stream of comparatively cool air poured down from the room above, and drew in through our narrow windows. breathed with a sense of indescribable rehef-drinking in the air as the desert traveler drinks from the mountain brook -oh! what a luxury it would be, if that temp door could only be kept open! It might have been if our life or comfort bad been valued by those in authority.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 24. -Allman & Co., the hatters, assigned to-day for the benefit of creditors. The assignee is Albert Bettinger. Place of business 256 West Fifth street, Allman's assets are estimated at $10,000, with liabilities of $3,200. The immediate cause of the failure was an attachment on the stock issued by 'Squire Bright at the instance of John Ferguson, the Fifth street liquor dealer. Last week Allman borrowed $200 of Ferguson, promising to pay it back in a day or two. Instead Allman paid Forguson $50 and gave him a check for $150. The check was worthless and Ferguson levied on the hat store. Jacob Allman began business in July, 1886, succeeding his brother, Abraham Allman, who had been handling the same line of goods in this city for fourteen years. When the firm changed hands it was a question as to who was the real owner of the establishment.

"Sallie Wilson" in the Jug.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Dec. 24.-Fred. Warden came here from Grand Haven without money, but determined to make au honest living. He had do ned female attire before striking the city, and through an employment agency secured work as a nurse girl in one of the most aristocratic families in the West Side. This was two weeks ago. The other servants in the family did not take kindly to "Sallie Wilson," as Warden called himself, and kept a close watch. They discovered him shaving himself early yesterday morning, and the fact was reported to the lady of the house. "Sallie" was hauled up, confessed his sex and is now in jail awaiting examination for the trickery.

Where Sharp Will Spend Christmas. ROME, N. Y., Dec. 24.-Jacob Sharp and his wife, who left New York last evening, arrived here at 7:30 o'clock this morning. Mr. Sharp came out of the sleeping car unaided, but was helped off the steps to his conveyance by his grandson, Mr. Rogers, and Mr. Olney, the husband of his granddaughter. He greeted his relatives who met him at the station and expressed his pleasure at seeing them. The family sleigh was driven through the side streets of the city, and thence to the country seat in the suburbs, where Mr. Sharp will spend the Fighting the War in Chicago. CHICAGO, Dec. 24.—Rumblings of war across the Atlantic made the short interest in wheat very nervous this morning. Nearly all the shorts apparently believed that it was unwise to adjourn over three days with short lines of wheat out in the present condition of affairs abroad. They were free bidders at the start, and May opened at 85c, or 1-4c higher than yesterday's close. May corn opened unchanged at 54 1-4c, but there were sales immediately after at 54 3-8c. May pork opened a trifle easier at $15 60.

New York Feshions for Men. The following New York styles in men's dothing were recently described in Harper's Bazar: Business suits are of dark mixed suitings and checks and stripes that are not conspicous-indeed, are almost invisible-producing dark gray shades, brown and red mixtures, black and brown checks, etc. These suits may have a cutaway coat, fastened by three or four buttons, as the size of the wearer dictates, or else a four buttoned sack coat; the waistcoat may have a "step" rolled (notched) collar or a standing "step" collar; the edges are double stitched. Trousers for these suits-and indeed for all suits-are cut medium wide and hang straight, but they are not of exaggerated width, nor do they have the folded crease down the front and back which belongs to ready made clothing. A dark silk or satin searf tied in a large knot, a black Derby hat and tan or mahogany colored gloves with wide black stitching are worn with busine a saits.

Those dressy in uning suits that are worn in the afternoon as well have a cutaway coat and vest of black or der't blue corkscrew cloth, or of diagonal that is not very wide, or else of the crape finished cloth.

The frock coat suit is necepted as the correct day dre : suit for formal receptions in the afternoon and for day weddings, alike for the bridegroom, ushers and guests. Fine black diagonals, corkscrow cloth or cheviot -a cloth without facing-are used for the double breasted freek coat, which is of medium length, is fastened by four buttons, has corded sill; facing, is bound with ribbon braid and lined with black satin. The vest of the s, me cloth is single breasted and medium high. The trousers are of dark stripes, though slightly lighter trousers are worn by a bridegroom and his attendant : White or very light of toman adk scarss, with a jeweled scarf pin, and pearl colored glover stitched with pearl, are worn by the groom, best man and ushers. The guests also wear light scarfs with tan colored gloves. A high silk nat completes a freek coat suit.

Dress suits for evening are of the finest black diagonal or Augolic, especially those for young men; broadcloth is little up d. The wearer prefers.

BUSINESS AND MUSIC IN MAS-SILLON.

Better Trade Was Never Known. Two Thousand People at St. Mary's.

"No holiday trade was ever like it." This is the decision of every business man in Massillon. It was long past midnight, Saturday, before the streets became deserted, and early Sunday morning they were again thronged with the church goers, who were drawn out, knowing that it was Sunday, as well as Christmas, and that beautiful music would be rendered.

Two thousand people at least, attended the services at St. Mary's church, and listened to the wonderful Christmas music. St Clair's mass is lacking in some of the profound and impressive passages contained in many other compositions, but it has more brilliant parts, and as a whole, is more attractive than any ever before rendered at St. Mary's. To Protessor Baer is due not only all the credit for arranging it, but for directing its execution. The orchestra, the choir, and the organ worked smoothly together, and in the Te Deum, especially, showed the possibilities of church music The soprano voices of the choir are just a trifle weak, but as a whole, all the elements were evenly balanced. Next year the vast interior of St Mary's is to be finished, and an immense new organ placed therein. When that is done, there is no telling what music will be produced.

In St. Timothy's church the choir rendered the long and excellent programme published Saturday, before a good congregation. The regular quintette was notincreased, however. The church was gracefully trimmed, and a collection was taken up for the families of deceased clergy. No services were held in the evening.

At the First Methodist church an elaborate selection of Christmas music was also brought out, and the auditorium was crowded both morning and evening.

While at most of the other churches there was some appropriate music, there was no especial effort made, more than upon ordinary occasions.

Nearly all the Sunday schools had the customary Christmas tree, and thousands of little ones, otherwise uncared for, were made happy.

THE EISTEDDFOD.

REMARKABLE SCENES MARK ITS CLOSE.

Pitisburg Captures the $500 Prize. and Secanton that of $250.

Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 26.—The Fifth Eisteddfod of St. David's Society, though highly successful in every respect, closed in a grand row, the like of which was the "Erminie" lanciers, and the beautiful never witnessed upon any similar occa- "Gypsy Baron" waltz. Light refreshsion. The principal contest for the prize of $500 and a silver cup, had just been decided in favor of the Pittsburg society when all the Iron City people set up a cheer, and their opponents a groan. The Pittsburgers commenced singing "Glory, those present from out of town were: Glory, Hallelujah," while a lady fainted, Miss Wikidal, of Topeka, Kan.; Miss another from Scranton wept on the shoulders of her musical director, and the others howled in sympathy. Many insist that the award was very unjust.

There were three sessions during the Eisteddfod, attended by a total of 15,000 people, and the finest choral societies in the country participated. They were the Cyroddrion Choral Society, of Scranton, 175 members; the Newburg Choral Union, 80; Johnstown, 83; two Youngstown societies, 279; Massillon Choral Union, 60, and Pittsburg, 193, making a total of almost 900 singers, not including glee clubs, quartettes and soloists, which would swell the number to at least 1,000. The Scranton society came in style, having their own special train, and the Massillon party arrived in their own car.

Prof. Wm. Apmadoc, of Utica, was conductor, and Prof. Wm. Courtney was musical adjudicator. The hall was barely filled this morning, but in the afternoon 6,000 were present.

The Massillon Choral Society entered into the contest for the grand prize of $250, for "Arise, all ye Nations," which was awarded to the Scranton society, and also for the prize of $500 for the best rendition of "Thanks be to God," which was won by the Pittsburg club. St. David's Society cleared between $3,500 and $4,000.

The Street Commissioner's Trouble.

Yesterday was the day for thirty or more prominent business men of Massillon to appear in the mayor's court, as defendents, in a suit brought by one L Limbach, for unpaid poll tax. Two prominent citizens called and settled, but the eight and twenty other prominent citizens did not put in an appearance. Even the street commissioner himself concluded not to be rash, and making up his mind that be was sick, sent word to the mayor to delay the cases until Thursday, and there are those who believe that when Thursday comes both sides will have forgotten the programme.

The fact is, brother Limbach is being criticised in a manner which makes that ambitious politician wince. The propriety of collecting the tax is noquestioned, but people have taken to asking him it all all but the hundred or more who are on his little list have ea meanmeetton with the experimental otherwise settled.

Is the "Star of Bethlehem" the Star of Bethlehem, or Only Venus? Mr. Editor:-Yesterday you publishing is clipped from the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette of yesterday: "As I have yet seen no announcement through the columns of the Commercial Gazette of the appearance of the "Star of Bethlehem," and as it is a visitor of such rare occurrence, only making its appearance once in three hundred years. and always at Christmas tide, there are possibly among readers some who will never have a better opportunity to witness this celestial wonder. It is now shining in the East with remarkable brilliancy, and can best be seen about 3 or 4 o'clock, a. m.; but its wonderful size, brilliancy and rare ap pearance should be sufficient induce ment to allure all your patrons to bestin themselves these cold mornings to take a parting view of this celestial visitor who will remain only for a few days

'It stood over the place where the young child lav.' I presume then its mission was fulfilled, and after Christmas morning will be lost to sight.

Mrs. C. H. F." The above is similar to considerable that has been published on the same subject of late years. The "star" can be seen now, as it has been seen for the last several weeks by hundreds of early risers.

The writer saw it on the 24th of December, 1874, from the level shore of Lake Erie about 5 a.m. The air was clear, and low down in the horizon its large size and brilliancy in the cold, crisp atmosphere gave it an almost startling effect. As it arose, its appearance of size diminished, and slower apparently, so that it might have the appearance of standing, as all other planetary bodies do, and, of course, it faded out of sight as day-light brightened. But this "star" was none other than the planet Venus, which like the moon, showing her full face, probably, to the earth.

Venus has her phases similar to those of the moon; her orbit being within that of the earth's completes her revolution around the sun in two-thirds of the time of the earth's revolution, so that she Venus), has the appearance of being 'full" to us at regular periods. Then she appeared December 1874, and December 1887, and any astronomer can calculate when she will again appear "Inll" at Christmas tide, in her character as the "Star of Bethlehem." THE HOLIDAY SEASON,

And its Social Festivities.

Socially speaking, the holidays commenced last night, when Prof. Puegner drew his bow across his violin, in the Hotel Conrad hall. The party gathered slowly and as it seemed so near to Christ mas, it was feared that the great majority of those who ought to be present, would remain away, to do shopping. Indeed, too many married people did not arrive, but not with standing their absence, about one hundred others came, and made the evening a very jolly one. The orchestra played with spirit and taste, introducing ments were served in the dining room during the intermission. There was quite a reunion of college men and women, and others who for various causes have moved away from the city. Among Mame Buckius, Harry Frease, Will Shanafelt, Will Kuhns, Ralph Ambler, and Harry Raynolds, of Canton; Warren Bicknell, of Cleveland; Mrs. William Thornburgh, and Bert Thornburgh, of Elyria; Miss Gilman, of New Bedford, Mass.; Karl F. Miller, of Pittsburg; W. A. Douthirt, of Indianapolis; Edward A. Peacock, of Richmond Ind.; and John Gillespie, who is now, in reality, a Massillon man.

On Tuesday evening Miss McCue will give a german in honor of her friend, Miss Gilman, of Massachusetts. Thursday evening the Everbard party will take place. Invitations have been issued to many Massillon and Canton people. Friday evening the Entre Nous club holiday dance will occur in Canton. Unusual preparations have been made to make this very enjoyable. Monday evening, January 2, the holiday dance will be given in the Hotel Conrad hall, and a large attendance is expected. After Monday the schools and colleges will again begin to claim their own, though the opera on Wednesday will take up much attention.

A Massillon Man in Trouble.

William S. Bowman, formerly of Massillon, is in trouble in Cleveland, being charged by his employers, Sipe & Sigler, jewelry dealers, with grand larceny. He was employed as a porter, and in his house property was found aggregating in value to $190.50. The Leader says: "Besides the jewelry, about fifty pocketbooks were found concealed in the house. Bowman, until a year ago, worked in Meyer & Gleim's drug store, formerly owned by Arthur Conwell. He was a porter there for six years, and the pocketbooks were evidently taken from that store. Bowman is a young man, and began work for Sipe & Sigler last January. He came well recommended, and was implicitly trusted. Bownian was arrested yesterday, and Justice Hart held him in $1,000 bail," He is the son of excellent people, and his downfall is much regretted.

SCIENCE AND PROGRESS.

Phenomena Observed in Connection with the Sense of Hearing, and Termed by Psychologists "Sound Blindness"-Interesting Experiment with a Boomerang.

Every one knows the Australian boomerang. It is a curved weapon made out of a piece of hard and compact wood, which the Australian savages dexterously throw at any given object-enemy or game. After the boomerang has struck the object, it returns of itself toward the person who threw it. Some years ago Mr. Marey published an interesting article on the subject, in which he wrote, without knowing it, a chapter on physics without apparatus. La Nature recently reproduced the substance of it as fol-

EXPERIMENT WITH THE BOOMERANG.

A piece of cardboard cut into the shape of a rescent, with rounded horns, is laid upon the cal of the finger, or, better, is held between the pail and the finger (see cut) in such a way that its plane is slightly inclined on the horizon, at 45 degs., for example; then a smart fillip, given to one extremity, sends the crescent into the air, and at the same time imparts to it a rapid rotary motion. As the crescent starts, it has the appearance of a little revolving wheel. It makes its way forward in an oblique ascending position, then stops, and, without turning over, returns upon the same trajectory, if the experiment is a success, but oftenest falls back of, in front of or at the sides of its starting point, and always in retrograding, "Why," asks Mr. Marey, "does the object pre crye the inclination of its plane with respect to the horizon? Hero intervene the notions that Foucault has given us concerning the preservation of the plane of oscillation of a pendulum and the plane of rotation of a gyroscope. Therefore, it seems to me that we should understand the phenomenon in this wise: The beomering receives a double motion from the lamter-a rapid rotation and a general impulsion. The rotation oblige the apparatus to keep its plane, and it there fore makes its way obliquely in the nir until the forward motion is exhausted. At a given moment the boomerang revolves fixedly in a point of space, and then gravity causes it to fall. But since the projectile, continuing to revolve, keeps its inclined plane, the resistance of the air tends to make it full parallel with the said plane; that is to say, to bring at back to as starting point.

Sound Ellindorss.

The phenomena of color blindness are well known. Physiologists, and especially psyenologists, claim that there is a similar series of phenomena to be observed in connection with the sense of hearing. Science suggests that if a word were comed to describe these thenomena, it would naturally be "sound afness," but many who have written on is subject seem to prefer the term "sound

A writer in the London Journal of Education uses the term "sound blindness." He states that the difficulties which some personhave in learning to spell and in learning how onounce foreign languages, suggested to him the possibility of the existence of such a whing as sound blindness—an inability to distinguish particular shades of sound, arising from some organic defect in the ear which is distinct from deafness as that term is commonly understood.

The writer iter stion noticed that a small boy, in writing down a line of poetry which he had learned by heart, had spelled the word "very" "worth," When some experiments were tri. . . . was found that the boy could hear no difference between "very," 'perry," and "polly," and yet he was not deal The boy in question had great difficulty in learning to read, and on inquiry being made many teachers were found who testified to the fact that it is quite a common thing to meet with children who are very slow i learning to read precisely, because sounds different to the teacher were not different to Photograph of a Lightning Flash.

The illustration here given is from The Electrical Review, and is an exact copy of a flash of lightning, photographed by Mr. Josoph Gray at Brixton, England, during a recent thunder storm. The flash presents a most striking and eccentric appearance, gradually dying away at the right hand side, and as we believe, in the distance, until it be comes too faint to affect the sensitized plate

PHOTOGRAPH OF A LIGHTNING FLASH. The zigzag and irregular form of most lightning flashes is a very peculiar circumstance, and is usually explained by supposing that the air in the direct path of the electric current becomes compressed and condensed by its passage, thus increasing its resistance to the current, which is obliged to change its direction, and pass through air of less density, according to the well known law that an electric current always follows the path of least resistance. This is consid-er d by scientists as one of the most perfect an I satisfactory photographs of a lightning flash ever obtained.

A Brief History of Celluloid.

Alexander Parkes, an Englishman, in vented this remarkable substance in 1855, and made a fine display of it at the Pariexposition in 1867. American patents of 1870 and 1874 are substantially identical with those now in use in England. In France there is only one factory, and there is none elsewhere on the continent, one in Hanover having been given up on account of the ex plosive nature of the stuff. In this country sure cellulose is commonly obtained from paper makers, in the form of tissue paper, in wide rolls; this, after being nitrated by a bath of mixed intrate and sulphuric acids, is thor oughly washed and partially dried. Cam phor is then added, and the whole is ground together and thoroughly mixed. At this sage coloring matter may be put in. A little alcohol increases the plasticity of the mass, which is then treated for some time to powerful hydraulic pressure. Then come-breaking up the cakes and feeding the fragments between heated rolls, by which the amalgamation of the whole is completed. RATS IN A MENAGERIE.

A Reporter's Experience with a Parlor Rifle-Monkeys, Rats, Birds, Mice.

The reporter followed Mr. Reiche into a ittle back office, where lifteen or twenty bullfinches were ranged in tiny wooden cages against the wall. Mr. Reiche drew two chairs up to a big window which opened on a small yard roofed in with glass like a hothouse. The reporter sat down in one chair and Mr. Reiche took the other. "Are you a good she ?" the latter asked as he reached back to his desk and produced a small 22 caliber parlor rifle.

"I was once connected with a paper published in Tombstone, A. T.," began the reporter, "and"-

"Say no more; that'll do," broke in Mr. Reiche. "But I asked you for a very good reason. You see, I don't mind your shooting all the rats you want, but I would rather you would confine yourself

"But where are the rats?" "Out in the yard. Keep quiet and they'll show themselves.' The reporter kept quiet and looked out into the yard. It was not like any back yard he had ever seen before. On one side of it were piled a number of wooden hoxes with iron bars in front of them. The boxes were ranged against the fence in long rows one above the other. In them were about two dozen monkeys of various breeds, a six months old mountain lion. several jackals, a few badgers, a porcu-pine, three white cockatoos and any number of rose colored ones, a boa constrictor. two large baboons, a nest of feathery squirrels, some swans and an antelope.

Scattered in the eages and on the ground were pieces of bread, bits of crackers, kernels of corn and bird seed, which the well fed and careless animals had wasted. This food is what attracts the rats and mice, and at night great numbers of them scamper about the place and wax fatter and fatter at Mr. Reiche's expense.

It must have been an off day for rats, however, for only seven made their appearance during the half hour which the reporter put in trying to shoot them. It was lots of fun, though, and every animal in the place seemed to enjoy it. Whenever the little rifle would crack like a whip and a puff of white smoke would aunounce the death of a rat all the monkeys would chatter and express their approval by unmistakable signs. The rats were all big fellows and as fat as a prison wanden. Mr. Reiche snys "One of them nearly killed the tittle lion the other night," he said. "The lion has been in the habit of killing all the rats that came within its reach. It grabs them by the back the same as a terrar does and shakes the life out of them in a jiffy. It missed its hold the other night, though, and the rat managed to bite it in the nose. When the men came here in the morning they found the lion lying half dead from the loss of blood and it has not fully recovered yet. I bathed the wound with alum water and fed the sick beast on live pigeons to tempt its appetite. It is now much better. "Will the monkeys kill rats?"

"No; the monkeys pay no attention to them at all. I think they are afruid of thera. All the cat animals kill rats whenever they get a chance, and the cockatoos and swans are great rat slavers. The boa constrictor never gets a chance to show what he can do, as the rats avoid his cage as if by instinct."

"Don't the rats eat a good many of your small birds?"

"They can't get the chance, as I have had all the rooms lined with tin to keep them out. Sometimes, however, they sneak in during the day, when the doors are open, and at night kill a lot of canaries or other small dirus. The store is overrun with mice, but there is so much seed scattered about that they don't bother the birds at all. If a bird is sick and dies during the night the mice will eat it, but they never attack a live one. There is too much other food lying around which they like better."

The rat hunt kept up until it was too dark to see to shoot any more and the record stood six dead rats to seven shots. Mr. Reiche has killed as many as fifteen big rats with his little rifle in an hour and can bit them every time on the run. It doesn't seem to make any difference how many are killed, the supply seems to be inexhaustible. A pair of ferrets were turned loose in the place several years ago, but they proved more of a nuisance than the rats, and one night killed a number of the fine sand hill cranes.— New York Evening Sun.

What Dynamite Is Like. Those who have never seen the much talked of dynamite explosive will be interested to know that it looks very much like moist brown sugar. Nitro glycerine, which is formed by the action of nitric acid upon glycerine, at a low temperature, is the active agent in dynamite, but is mixed with some absorbent substance to render it safer to handle than the liquid glycerine.

The absorbent material thus used is a silicious earth- a fine white powder composed of the remains of infusoria, and resembling powdered chalk; this takes up two or three times its weight of the nitroglycerine without becoming pasty, and the ingredients are easily mixed, leader. vessels and wooden spoons being used to avoid dangerous friction.

When fire is applied to this mass it burns with a strong flame, without any explosion, but when ignited by a detonating fuse or even by a sudden blow, its explosive force is tremendous. -Boston Budget.

How She Regards the Man. I have observed with pain that Boston women generally seem to consider it quite the thing to look down upon the men. It is very hard. I cannot imagine why it is. But they do. It appears to be the fashion here to regard the male animal of the genus homo as rather a necessary evil than otherwise. As a producer of money he is useful, but in all else not particularly desirable. If available as a partner in marriage he receives the attention due to such a party; but once disposed of matrimonially, he relapses into the forlorn condition of other Benedicks, who pass their time when not engaged in business lounging at the clubs, while their wives are busy forwarding the work of societies for the advancement of human knowledge in various branches.-Cor. HOLIDAY HUMOR.

L. Limbach, by virtue of a physical calumity, the street commissioner of the city of Massillon has evolved a great practical jobs, at the expense of the hundred or more of the best citizens the city has. On the face of the thing, it is very humorous, and exceedingly proper for this zealous official to begin a series of prosecutions against our business men, to compel them to pay their road tax That those who have been notified to pay, who can pay, and who will not, should be made to pay is a proposition that none will dispute. But when this incapable busy body brings suit against individuals who are a favored few, so to speak, the humor takes the flavor of gall, and the act, the aspect of petty tyranny. The facts of the case are these, Mr.

Lembach has selected persons whom he knows would support him under no circumstances, and who, with per baps a dozen exceptions, are memb is of the political party which sought and ought to have defeated him at the last spring election. He has been very careful to begin the thing as soon as possible after his re election, in order that it may be forgotten before his term expires. Is there not some authority to compel him to announce the names of all the persons who have paid him thus far? Do the few scores who are now being annoyed represent the only citizens who are derelict? There are about one thousand persons in Massillon liable to the tax, under the ordinance. Have all but the unfortunate one hundred paid?

It looks as though the precious Limbach was slacking his speed just a trifle, for he has commanded a delay in the proceedings, until Thursday next. Politically speaking, he is boiling in hot water.

Tariff agitation is not confined to America. It is no less a question in Great Britain, to which the tariff reformers point as the living illustration of the effects of their theories. The next section of the same law, says that if farmers falsely label goods they must pay a fine of not less than fifty dollars. Mr. Talcott closes with an eloquent plea to the public, urging them to follow the requirements of the statutes.

HERE AND THERE.

How the Sewer should be Ventilated-A Sewer System for Massilion-About Telephone Lines.

How many miles of telephone wire do you suppose there are in Massillon? There are 308,731 feet, equal to fifty-eight miles and something over. There are twenty-two and one-half miles of pole line and no one knows how many poles. Manager Starn says that his company contemplates reducing the rates in other interior cities to pretty nearly what they are in Massillon.

The council was in a dreadful state of mind on Wednesday night, over the lack or ventilation in the Main and Prospect street sewers, but after an hour's debate was imable to decide how to introduce fresh air. The only proposition which met with much favor was to make a passage from the curbing to the sewers and then from the curbstone end run an fron pipe straight up, ten feet or so in the air. These little monuments would have a truly original look, not to say strange. The council stands in wholesome dread of sewer gas, and wishes to pipe it high above the heads of every one. But that is not the way it is done elsewhere. Dr. Miller says that venti lation is not so introduced in the best regulated cities at all. The aperture street, covered with an iron grating. If it is desired to have this opening in the side walk or gutter, well and good, but the tall pipes are unnecessary As to sewer gas, he says that where the fall is as great as in the sewers under discussion, none worth mentioning is generated, and after these openings are made he does not believe that any one who takes the pains to investigate will find enough coming out to be detected. He believes that two vents will be enough, one down town just above the high water mark, and one at the oppo site end. Thus a draft will be created at all times, and the underground passage will be kept sweet and pure.

Those who discuss sewerage in Mas sillon only speculate as to how the line should best be laid. There are plenty of engineers who can plan asystem of ducts, for it is only a question of figures. The real point is, what shall we do with our sewage? Shall we, as does almost every American city, dump our waste into the nearest stream, to contaminate it water, which will carry it to the nex town below? This is the selfish policy and no one can approve it, on the ground that every other town does the same An I then, too, we will be secure in using the river for this purpose, as there is no city on its banks north of us, and if it were otherwise, there is not enough water to answer the purpose. But it we divida build a sewer system, why not move a in the alread and adopt a new plan, the page eability of which is unquestioned, a slines size sawage by heat, and cadi post o con ases to be a strione mator. This come at Russell a Co-5 yor sin this city, and any one can exonine die metho I who choos s.

Several weeks same, a moeting was illed of young men in treesled in the egamz (ion of a Y. M. C. A. in Messil on. Acting on the advice of the State Secretary, Mr. S. G. Gordon, of Cloveland, it was decided not to organize a. that time, but to find out beforehand whether there is sufficient interes in such an organization among our young men to insure its success, it started. A committee, consisting of Mr. C. B. Heck man, chairman, Mr. J. E. Johns, secreary; Mesers, T. H. Focke, C. M. Giddings H. O. Westover and A. F. Sprankle were appointed to supervise the preparatory steps. Books were put in circulation dating the objects of the proposed organiz vion, requesting the names and money pledges of all young men interested in one or more of these objects. Young men's prayer meetings are held every Sunday afternoon. The committee, feeling the need of a headquarter; for their work, and wishing to test the demand for a free reading room, have fitted up the south room of the Bammerlin block, first floor, for reading and meeting room. The young men's prayer meeting will meet there to-morrow afternoon at 4 c'clock, to which every young man in Massillon is invited. The reading room will be opened to the public on Monday evening, and will be open during the evenings only, for the present. Whether a permanent organization is effected depends on the success attending these preparatory tests.

The Greenwood Company's Success. An excellent audience turned out Mon-

The principals are blessed with rich voices without exception, the costumes are new and handsome, and the chorus is strong and even. An orchestra of ten pieces added completeness to the rendition.

The company, it must be remembered. is a new one, and in order to present strongest material. The same organization will appear in Massillon on Wednesyet open.

MAILS ROBBED!

BURGLARS ENTER THE POST-OFFICE

And Carry off the Eastern Night-Mail, Small Change and Stamps. Where were the Watchmen?

The second robbery, on a prominent business street, toward dawn, took place ast night. The loss cannot be estimated though the inconvenience is already felt. It occurred at the post office.

Three mails arrive in Massillon between the hours when the postoffice is closed, and, as no one remains in the office all night, the storm shed at the back entrance is lined with iron, and the mail carrier deposits the pouches there, and locks the door upon them. Last night the pouches received from the me-sengers on the 10:41 p. m., 2:49 and 3:50 a. m. trains on the Pennsylvania railroad were left as usual. At the last named hour there was a ching apparently wro 🧽

Postmaster Howells was notified of the robbery, and the premises were examined.

In the light snow which fell during the night, there were numerous prints near the shed, at the rear entrance to the post office, showing that more than one person was engaged in the enterprise. The door of the shed itself had been burst in by main strength, and the pouches alluded to were missing. The newspaper sacks, and one sealed letter bag was untouched. The mail taken all came from the eastern cities, and Cleveland. Having secured the contents of the eastern mail, attention was next directed to the postoffice proper. The efforts were all monoutrated on the side window just east of the rear entrance. The trans catch over a le lower sasar was broken by pressure, rad an entrance was ell e ed. The stamps, cash, and registered lett is we all deposited before the office is closed at night, but the thieves took nearly all the change consisting of ecp pers, and nickles, and stamps, which remained in the retail drawer, to tre value of perhaps twenty-five dollars. Whether letters and packages were removed from the boxes cannot of cours be known.

While the fruit of this crime is inconilderable, the inconvenience will be very great. The robbers were cortainly id-informed, or they would not have idempted to lift the mail they took as in it regist red letters and eash are never received. SUSPENDED

FOR CONDUCT UNBECOMING IN A POLICEMAN.

Officer Pepper is Suspended From the Porce, Until an Investigation is Made

The reporters, having had an inkling of what would happen, were not surprised, when, yesterday evening, Joseph Bamberger appeared in the office of the Mayor, and made the following statement:

To the Honorable the City Council:

Now comes Joseph Ramberger, who complains that John C. Pepper, one of the regular police officers of Massillon, did, on the 26th day of December, 1887, arrest one Joseph Bamberger and take him to he city prison of said city, and then and there, after having so arrested and imprisoned the said Joseph Bamberger, did then and there strike and wound the sa d Joseph Bamperger in a malicious manner, and when said Joseph Bamberger made 20 resistance whatever. The origin of the difficulty grew out of a debt that John C Pepper owed said Bamberger for labor, and mark I also say that the conduct of John C Pepper at the time above stated was reprehensible as an officer of the city, a d I ask your honorable body to take cognizance of the matter, as I am a peaceable citizen and do not want to be interfered with by a drunken police officer.

JOSEPH BAMBERGER. Sworn to, and subscribed before me, the 27th day of December, 1887. Joseph Frantz, Mayor.

This was the first knowledge brought to Mayor Frantz, that Bamberger had been placed under arrest or imprisoned. In the fulfillment of his duty as the executive of the city, he at once notified Officer Pepper of his suspension as a policeman, until after the investigation of the charges. The statement will be presented to the council, either at the next regular meeting on January 4, or at a special meeting. Last night a day patrolman was assigned to Officer Pepper's beat, and an extra man will likely be appointed to serve while the matter is pending.

This morning Bamberger again called at the Mayor's office, and made an affidavit charging Officer Pepper with assault and battery.

Mr. Pepper being asked if he wished to say anything in reply to 41 o charges answered that in proper time is would make a defense, in which meet though would be more clearly brought '. light, but until that time he would so thing.

Rheumatism

We doubt if there is, or can be, a specific remedy for rheumatism; but thousands who have suffered its pains have been greatly benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilia. If you have failed to find relief, try this great remedy. "I was afflicted with rheumatism twenty years. Previous to 1873 I found no relief, but grew worse, and at one time was almost helpless. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me more good than all the other medicine I ever had." H. T. Balcom, Shirley Village, Mass.

"I had rheumatism three years, and got no relief till I took Hood's Sarsaparilla. It has done great things for me. I recommend it to others." LEWIS BURBANK, Diddeford, Me.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is characterized by three peculiarities: 1st, the combination of remedial agents; 2d, the proportion; 3d, the process of securing the active medicinal qualities. The result is a medicine of unusual strength, effecting cures hitherto unknown. Send for book containing additional evidence.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla tones up my system, purifies my blood, sharpens my appetite, and seems to make me over." J. P. Thompson, Register of Deeds, Lowell, Mass. "Hood's Sarsaparilla beats all others, and is worth its weight in rold." I. Ballington, 130 Bank Street, New York City.

The Cleveland Press, of last night, devotes nearly half a column to telling how the corpse of William Kline, a colored man who was recently shot, was treated by the physicians delegated to hold the post mortem examination. It says: "In this case Dr. Holliday's student, who is also attending the medical college, cut the scalp open from the bridge of the nose to the back of the head, instead of from ear to ear, which is the proper way. Penberthy, the student, explained that he had unthinkingly made the incision as it is made in dissecting at the college He knew better, he said, if he had given the matter a moment's thought."

Charles W. Brieder has commenced suit for divorce from his wife, Ida M. Brieder. He asserts that they were married in Illinois, and that he was engaged in business in Massillon until the latter part of 1886. At that time he decided to close out and move West. He closed out his business, but his wife objected to moving to the west. He thought she would change her mind, however, and when she asked for money to visit friends 'in Steubenville he gave it. As she returned his letters unopened and refused to live with him, and as she is in New York city studying to be an actress, having a talent in that direction, he thinks he should have a divorce.—Canton Re-

OUR MINERAL RESOURCES.

REPORT OF MAJOR POWELL, OF THE GEOLOGICAL SURVEY.

Last Year's Production the Greatest Ever Recorded, Especially in Iron and Steel. The President and Cabinet to Attend Mr. Manning's Funeral.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—The United States geographical survey, Maj. J. W. Powell, director, has just issued its fourth annual volume, entitled "Mineral Resources of the United Stores, 1886."

The report gives primarily the production and value of every prominent mineral substance mined in the United States during the calendar year 1886; and in addition a compact statement of prices, sources of supply and the technical matters which proved important during the year. It appears that the total value of the mineral products, taken as nearly as possible at the points of production, was more than $465,000,000, the largests mineral production yes recorded in any country.

In 1885 the value was about $129,000,000, Many substances shared in this increase, but particularly iron and steel, which alone showed an increase of #30,000,000,

In this connection, the export states: "The production of iron and steel in the United States in the way was much too largest that lines taken piace in any year in the history of the country. Not only was this result attained, but considering the various products as a whole, the increased production in that year over the preceding year was exceptionally road phenominally large. So great was our progress in 1885 that at the close of the year the United States was the first counin the world in the production of seed and of manufactured iron, and we had made a great stride in lessening the distance which separates us only from Great Britain in the production of pig iron. There was a moderate advance in prices of all kinds of iron and sizel in 1886, The year was one of great prosperity for the American iron trade. It was not a year of excitement and inflation, but of steady and

Will Attend Manning's Funeral.

Washington, Dec. 27.—President Cleve band will leave Washington to-night for Al bany to attend Secretary Manning's funeral. Col. Lamont and all the members of the cabinet will accompany the president. They expect to return to Washington Tuesday night, reaching here early Wetnesday morn-

The members of the New York State Democratic association here, many of whom were subordinates of the late Secretary Manning. and by whom Mr. Manning is most kindly and affectionately remembered, gathered at their rooms Sunday and determinined to pay an appropriate tribute of respect and love for their courageous leader and dear old friend, It will take the form of beautifully engrossed resolutions of tender sympathy to be presented to Mr Manning's family.

Mr. John H. Walsh, of Albany, president of the association, has named the following members of the association, who will be entrusted with this duty: Assistant Secretary Maynard, Fifth Auditor Eickhoff, Chief Clerk E. B. Youmans and T. D. Keleher, all of the treasury department; G. H. Benedict ond P. M. Furlong, of the government printing office; and John Trainor, of New York. These gentlemen will prepare the resolutions, and also represent the association by attending the funeral in Albany.

The Storey Property.

CHICAGO, Dec. 27 .- The Times says: The first steps have been taken in the transfer of the estate of the late Wilbur F. Storey, including the Times, to the people who have purchased it. Mr. James J. West, one of the purchasers, was appointed receiver, as a part of the plan for the ultimate transfer to the Chicago Times company. Mrs. Eureka C. Storey on the one hand, and the heirs-at-law on the other, have conveyed all their interests to Mr. West. The object of making him receiver temporarily was to protect the creditors of the estate under the late receiver until the necessary legal steps could be completed. As soon as an inventory can be made the new owners will finally assume contral of

A Ten-Year-Old Drunkard.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27. -Lizzie Degnan, only ten years old, was arrangined in the Jefferson Market police court as an habitual drunkard, Last week she went to school so intoxicated that the teacher was compelled to send her home. Her father, James Deguan, went to the police court to secure her release, but was himself so drunk that he was arrested and committed for ten days. The child was sent to the Sisters of St. Dominiek.

A Woman Fatally Burned.

WATERBURY, Conn., Dec. 27.—Mrs. Patrick Dowling, of Bishop street, was fatally burned Saturday night her clothes catching fire from the explosion of a lamp she was carrying. She was alone at the time and ran into the yard. Before assistance reached her she was so badly burned that after lingering several hours in frightful agony she died.

Union Apprentices.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 27.—In the county court Judge Bailey gave a boy apprentice at a glass factory one week in which to return to work or suffer sentence. The boy's defence was that he thought he was discharged because he had joined a labor union which had entered upon a strike. Judge Bailey decides that apprentices cannot join a union.

DEATH OF MR. MANNING.

The late Secretary of the Treasury Quietly

DANIEL MANNING. ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 27.-Mr. Daniel J. Manning, the late secretary of the treasury, quietly and gently ceased to breathe at 1:30 Saturday afternoon in the presence of his family. Mr. Manning came to Albany on Tuesday evening December 13 to seek rest. The diagnosis of his case at the time he was stricken down at Washington showed that he was suffering from Bright's disease. This the physicians believed was brought on by close confinement in his private office in the treasury building, which was in a wretched sanitary condition. A large untrapped pipe connected directly with the sewer, allowing the free escape of sewer gas into the office. The first symptoms of the disease showed themselves soon after Mr. Manning began to use the quarters in the form of failure of strength, shortening of breath and had headaches. After the partial paralysis, which occurred in March, 1886, a thorough medical examination resulted in the discovery that he was suffering from chronic Bright's disease. complicated with hypertrophy and degeneration of the beart, and that the paralysis was probably due to a hemographic in the brain. There was no recurrence of the paralysis, and his mind remained perfectly clear, to the

What Mr. Manning was and the high distinction to which he reached he owed to himself. His boyhood was so hard and short that at nine years of age he was forced to earn a living as office boy in the Albany Argus, where he learned to set type, making his way into William Cassidy, the editor's, good graces. He was a steady, bright-faced, active lad, with a direct, simple way of saying things, that soon ande him available as a reporter. In time Cassidy made him eity editor and on Cassidy's death years afterwards he stepped into his place. Perhaps the racest linek that ever befold Daniel Manning was the liking William Cassidy took to him. The editor of The Argus was not only a keen politician, an accomplished scholar, and a brilliant writer, but he was one of the most highly bred men ever known in Albany

From his honest Irish parents, young Manning got the rugged constitution and powers ful frame that have been to him more than a fortune and a coll diploma, But from William Casady has armed surve courtesy and easy dignity. It has often been said that no man could associate with Cassidy and not learn to behave like a gentleman. Mr. Manning has been president of a bank, a leader in the enterprise of Albany and the greatest single power in his community. He has great common sense and business sagacity, qualities that made his paper a power, and turned the opportant less it sterew in his way into the roads to an horest and handsome fortune.

GENERAL FOREIGN NEWS.

THE SULTAN ALARMED AT THE ACTIVE WALL PREPARATIONS.

He is Casting About to See if he Can't Raise Some Troops—Russian Demand for Indemnity Arrears Has Something to Do With it-Other Foreign News.

Lowoon, Dec. 27,-A dispatch from Constantinople to the Daily News says: "The government is alarmed at its neighbor's war preparations and the sultan is inquiring as to the advisability of calling out 50,000 men for Erzeroum and Bulgaria. It is stated that M. Nelidoff, the Russian ambassador to Turkey, has informed the porte that unless the indeninity arrears, ammounting to £750,000, be paid Russia will be obliged to take pledges in Asia Minor for the protection of her inter-

"The government is hampered for money. A body of marines, whose time had expired, recently tried to force their way into the imperial palace to demand of the sultan their arrears of pay. They were all arrested and imprisoned, and afterward they were paid a small sum each and sent away from the capital to prevent their complaints from reaching the ears of the sultan.

But This Sounds Reassuring.

LONDON, Dec. 27.—The Times correspondent at St. Petersburg says: "Gen. Von Schweinitz, the German ambussador, brought most peaceful and cancilatory assurances from Prince Bismark. FROM SAMOA AND HAWAII

STRONG OPPOSITION TO THE KING SET UP BY THE GERMANS AT APIA.

Hawaiians on the Yerge of Another Revolution, Owing to the Curtailment of Kalakaua's Powers-Collision Between American Sailors and a German.

San Francisco, Dec. 27.-The steamer Mariposa, which arrived yesterday, brought | advices from Samoa to November 14. The Apia correspondent of the Sydney Morning Apia correspondent of the Sydney Morning Herald states that the Samoans are becoming more keenly alive to the fact that the party represented by the new king, Tamazese, has been made use of merely to serve the policy of the Germans. The whole plan of foreign interference as represented by the German plan of operations, is steadily raising a strong opposition.

Within a fortnight after the assembling of parliament, there were increased rumors of dissatisfaction with the chief. The meeting of the legislature did not include all the most influential men of the islands, and it is understood that numbers of those who attended it have seceded from the government,

The arrival of the United States man ofwar Adams October 19, was the occasion of much rejoicing to many in Apin. Men were not permitted to leave the ship because of the presence of the German guards and sentries along the beach and the possibility of a conflict taking place. Soon after the Adams' arrival a number of natives under Asi, the lighting chief, visited the vessel, and, after inspection, the Samonns assembled on the upper deck and held a dance. The correspondent states that the Germans expressed their annoyance at this circumstance, and the natives have been virtually prohibited from giving any more such entertainments.

A collision is reported to have taken place between American sailors and a Geman on the street. An officer jestled a sailor, who knocked him down.

Honolulu advices are that after King Kalakaua had veloed the bill to abolish the office of governor, and also another measure, providing for the performance of such duties as pertained to that office, a call of the house was ordered to consider the vetoes, and fiery speeches were made by the minister of interior, Thurston, Gen. Ashford and others. The legislature declined to submit the quession of modified right of veto to the supreme court, and the king wrote asking the court's Infla mm ation. ordered to consider the vetoes, and flery advice. Meanwhile the legislature adopted resolutions denying the king's right to veto. The supreme court invited all memhers of the bar to confer with it on the subject, and the court listened with closed doors to arguments of twenty two attorneys.

The impression was at first conveyed that the supreme court was unanimous in sustaining the veto, in consequence of which inflanmatory articles appeared in several papers, but a week ago the king received an utimation that the egurt could not agree. A special correspondent, writing from Honolniu, says:

"The people : - are virtually on the eveof another vey a ron. The king, in exercising his veto power, intends to stand on his constitutional rights until a judicial decision is rendered. The legislature will contest his action, and the natives are becoming excited. They find themselves ignored and treated with contempt; the king insulted: his rights, as understood by them, ignored or denied. The native paper, it is said, is inciting natives to rise in arms, if necessary, and assert their right to a voice in the man-age tocat of their own affairs. It only needs a spark to set the country in a blase.

THE BIG RAFT.

A United States Steamship Reports that

New London, Conn., Dec. 21. -The United States steamship enterprise which was sent out by the navy department to search for the abandoned timber raft, have returned to this port. Commander McCalla, reports that or Friday he came upon the remnants of the raft 135 miles off Nantucket Shoals. The raft had broken up, and the sea was covered up with the separated logs. He sailed through the floating timber all Friday and Friday night, but could not find enough of the raft holding together to tow into port, He thinks there is no danger to navigation from the logs, as they will soon drift a part and out of the frequented track of vessels.

The logs were found 135 miles southeast by south of the Shoals, and are not in the route of the Transatkantic stoamers. The revenue cutter Grant has also arrived here. She did not succeed in finding any part of the lost

THE COUNTR'S CROPS-BRIEF RE-PORT OF THE FAT STOCK SHOW.

The Famous ersey Cow Eurotas and Her Descendant—How to Make a Cheap and Serviceable Ice House-Matters of General Interst.

Ice is regarded in many sections of the country as necessity, and most farmers who have built ice houses and harvested and put w their own ice claim that it pays a good rout in addition to affording a luxury. There are many plans for ice houses; the success of all these in large measur depends on ventilation at the top, drainage below and plenty of packing

FIG. 1-ICE HOUSE. The illustrations show an above ground ice house described and approved by Minnesota Farmer. The house is constructed of a single wall, boarded to on the inside. It may be built with dout e walls if preferred, but this will add somewhat to the cost. The filling and removing is done at the end, boards being slipped in to close the opening; a swinging door may be used if preferred. The building is left open at the gables, as shown, or horizontal slats may be used, being sure to leave space between sufficient for ventilation. Engraving No. 2 shows a cross section and the manner of packing the ice; a drain pipe is shown underneath.

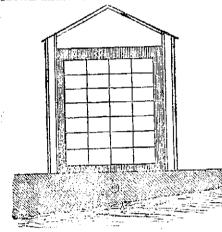

FIG. 2 - SECTIONAL VIEW.

The walls may be of well matched, rough boards, and the roof the same, well battened so as to shed rain. See that the drainage is good; if not naturally underdrained, put in tile or a stone drain. The small squares in Fig. 2 represent the blocks of ice, which are best cut of uniform size. The small dots show packing material-saw dust, tan bark, finely ent straw, or some other non-conducting ma-If out straw is used the layer must be at least a couple of feet in thick ness, and there should be a similar amount above and below the ice; it is safer to put still more on too, and be sure to weerin it down well. Of course, if double walls are of the packing material will be needed a the sides. Pack the ice blocks firmly too ther so that there will be no air spaces is eveen. A solid mass of ica is what is wanted.

Crops of the Country.

The quality of the corn crop is much lower than usual. The last estimate made by the department of agriculture placed the yield at 19.9 per acre, or about 1,453,000,000 bushels. The final estimate for the potato crop is 134,000,000 businels, against 165,000,000 bushels last year.

The apple crop, while small everywhere, is, according to Statistician Dodge, the largest in the eastern states, the average standing being Maine, 55; New Hampshire, 65; Vermont, 58; Massachusetts, 74; Connecticut, 83, and New York, 76. These figures are very low compared with prosperons years, yet from New Jersey southward to the Carolinus there is no return of over 45.

There appears to be no question but the cotton crop of the country is short of expectation and smaller than the world's requirements. Hence it is predicted that cotton growers will receive enhanced prices for their crop.

The American clover seed crop is short, but it is thought there will be enough for home consumption. From England come reports of an average crop.

The onion crop, it appears, is a short one all over the country.

Death of the Famous Cow Eurotas. The death of the famous Jersey cow Eurotas, at Mr. A. B. Darlington's farm at Darlington, N. J., recalls this wonderful cow's record as a butter producer, and the fabulous prices at which her descendants have been sold at public and private sales. Eurotas (2,454), calved Aug. 13, 1871, bred by R. M. Hoe, Morrisania, N. by Rioter II (469), dam Europa (176). Y., by Rioter II (469), dam Europa (176). When two years old she became the property of Mr. Darlington, and has since been a prominent feature of Valley Farm, at Darlington. The fame of Eurotas came with the astonishing butter test that lasted through one year. She gave 778 pounds I ounce of butter in eleven months and six days and dropped a fine calf within the Her second bull calf, Peduo, sold for $10,000; another bull calf, Michael Angelo, sold for the enormous price of $12,500. To Enrotas and her descendants is due, in large measure, the popularity of the Jerseys and the lively competition among breeders, which has resulted in the many line specimens that today exist in this country, not only of the various strains of Jersey blood, but that of other

Making Apple Butter. Apple butter is old fashioned, but it is also very palatable and very healthfultwo excellent reasons for calling attention to it. In any farmhouse that boasts of a kettle large enough to cook the apples in, and a pair or two of young, scrong arms to assist in stirring the apple butter, it is recommended as one of the best possible products into which to tranform apples that have become bruised or specked and which will not keep long in the natural and place in a large brass or copper kettle and fill up with the boiled cider. Boil over a slow fire until the apples are thoroughly cooked. Skim the mass constantly with a wooden paddle or blade set at right angles on the end of a stick long enough for the one using it to stand back from the fire, and with the blade long enough to reach the bottom of the kettle, thus keeping the contents in motion all the while. This constant motion is required, else the pulp would settle and burn on the bottom of the kettle.

Flavor with allspice, cinnamon and dloves to suit individual taste. When quinces are available a few added to the apples improve the flavor for most tastes.

Cooking Food for Swine.

The perennial question, "Does it pay to cook food for swine" was agitated at the annual meeting of the National Swine Growers' association, at Chicago, members being about equally divided on the pros and cons of the subject. A member from Indiana advocated cooking food, especially when Professor Stewart's plan is followed, said plan being a mixture of clover hay or similar bulky substance with meal or shorts. This member steams the meal thoroughly and mixes with cut clover bay, making eighteen to nineteen pounds of pork from a bushel of meal. He uses oats, bran, a little corn and clover hay, even in summer, to get the desired bulk. In winter he gives the feed warm, his idea being that fattening animals should never be chilly.

Professor Henry, of the Wisconsin Experiment station, claims that he has data sufficient to warrant the statement that there is a positive loss in cooking food for fattening purposes. In addition to the loss by cooking, Professor Henry avers that hogs fed uncooked food do not consume so much, as a rule, in a given time. As gain in weight comes from the excess of food digested above that required for maintenance, the extra amount consumed all goes to give increased weight. Hogs when given dry food consume it much slowly than when wet. In eating slowly there is probably a much larger amount of saliva mixed with the food, which may go far in aiding more complete digestion.

The Drive Well Patent Void. The drive well patent, which has been a source of both loss and annoyance to farmers in many sections of the country, and which has heretafore been sustained by the supreme court, has been declared void. This decisior was based on the record in the case of Andrews, Green and others against George Hosey, brought to Washington by an appeal from the United States circuit court for the southern district of Iowa. This court holds that the fact now made to appear for the first time in the drive well litigation that the invention was for the first time used at Cortland, N. Y., by others than Green, more than two years before the application for the patent was made, is fatal to the patent's validity.

The Christmas Turkey.

Turkeys designed for the holiday market, or, indeed, to grace the festive board at home, ought to be confined now in clean, warm pens and given plenty to eat. Corn meal and sweet potatoes cooked together make an admirable breakfast, on which the birds will fatten rapidly, the meat at the same time gaining a fine

The Tat Stock Show.

The fat stock shows have increased in popularity with each year, and it is safe to say that the tenth animal exhibition recently held in Chicago, ills., stands ahead of the shows that have preceded it. The different states were well represented and the show of stock was a large one, with the quality of the exhibits quite up to the standard. Shorthorns took the sweepstakes for the best single animal and several of the prizes in special classes. The Aberdeen Angus took the award for the best herd shown. The exhibition of grades or crossbred animals was an interesting one.

The horse show held in connection with the fat stock show, although a recent feature, proved one of the finest exhibits of the kind ever made in this country. The exhibits in the various draft classes were very fine and there were also some attractive specimens of the American trotter-Cleveland bays, carriage and park horses. The draft horses represented the Percheron, Clyde, English shire, French draft, Belgium, etc.

A TAMWORTH SOW.

In the swine exhibit there were seventeen exhibitors with about 100 animals all told, including Poland-Chinas, Berkshires, Victorias, Duroc-Jerseys, Essexs. Suffolks, Yorkshires, Chester Whites two Gothlands, one Tamworth, with various grades and crosses. The heavies hog on exhibition was Sir Robert, # Tamworth, 5 years old and belonging to Thomas Bennett, Rossville, Ills. The weight of this animal was 969 pounds.

The sheep exhibit was a fairly good one. a novelty was the Dorset borned. Downs were well represented. There was a very creditable show of swine. The poultry show was immense, and included every known breed.

The premium list is said to have reached this year $17,000. Next year the word "fat" will be omitted from the name of the show, and the exhibition will include not only fat cattle, but breeding cattle as

Here and There.

At the National Beckeepers' convention in Chicago, Dr. A. B. Mason, of Toledo, O., was elected president for the ensuing year. The next annual convention will be held at Cleveland.

The lowest yield reported to the department of agriculture from the great corn states is from Kansas, where the estimate is only twelve bushels per acre.

Dakota reports a larger apple crop than the average.

Mr. C. J. Wetmore, secretary of the California board of state viticultural commissioners, reports the wine crop as a light one, about 15,000,000, and the raisin crop at from 750,000 to 800,000 boxes.

Directions for Taking India Ink Imprescions of Ferns-Invernation About American Indians in General, and the

The name of Indians was first given to the red men of America from the mistaken notion of the early voyagers-Columbus himself included-that the newly found continent was in reality a part of India. This was soon shown to be an error, but the name of Indians thus wrongfully applied to the inhabitants continued to be used in every narrative of voyage and discovery, and has descended to our own times, only that we now qualify it to some extent by speaking of the red men as American Indians.

The Eicphant as a Kurse.

In India, where the elephant is treated by his owner almost as one of the family, the grateful animal makes a return for the kindeess shown it by voluntarily taking care of the bally. It will patiently, says St. Nichobus, permit itself to be mauled by its little charge, and will show great solicitude when the child eries. Sometimes the dephant will become so attached to its baby friend as to insist upon its constant presence. Such a case is known where the elephant went so far as to refuse to eat except in the presence of its little friend. Its attachment was so genuine that the child's parents would not hesitate to leave the baby in the elephant's care, knowing that it could have no more faithful nurse. And the kindly monster never belied the trust reposed in it. If the flies came about the baby, it would drive them away. If the child cried the giant muse would rock the cradle until the little one slept.

A Tame Gray Squirrel.

A young gray squirrel found by a party of children at Ivoryton, Conn., was cared for until it had grown large enough to help itself, when it was set at liberty. The children had no idea it would ever come back, but the same night the squirrel came to the window and tapped upon the pane. It was admitted, and the next morning whisked away again. It has built two nests, using whichever it chooses in the night time, except when it rains. Then it always asks for admission to

PHYSIOLOGY AND HYGIENE.

Health of American School Girls-Skin Troubles-Benefits of the Bath.

A society of collegiate alumne has issued some interesting literature on the subject of the health of school girls. Among some of the causes of the semi-invalidism and increasing number of nervous diseases that exist among even young girls, it enumerates the following:

1. Social dissipation and excitement. 2. Habitual loss of sufficient and healthy sleep. 8. Irregularity and haste in taking food, the omission of breakfast and the use of a stimulating, innutritious diet, such as condiments, pastry, etc. 4, Tight, heavy or insufficient clothing. 5. The ambition of parents and daughters to accomplish much in little time

It states that inquiries made in school rooms revealed great neglect of the laws of health on the part of the pupils. In a New York academy a class of sixty girls between the ages of 12 and 18 years chanced to be asked by a visitor at what time they retired the night before. The average was found to be twenty minutes before midnight, but no surprise was manifested by teachers or regret by nupils. Cut of ninety girls questioned one morning in a public school, twelve had eaten no breakfast; of these twelve, six had brought no lancheon, the other six had cake, pie or similar indigestible food.

Pimples and Blackheads.

Pimples and blackheads on the face are occasioned, says Herald of Health, by the torpid state of the skin; or, in other words, by the inability of the skin to perform its proper functions. The cause of these spots is nothing mere or less than an obstruction of the pores of the skin; the perspiration being aflowed to accumulate, the mouths of the pores getting clogged, irritation cusues and a pimple or black head results. The only way to be rid of them is to allow the skin to do its own work, by preserving it in a healthy condition and by keeping the whole system in order. The following ointment is recommended: Take an ounce of barley meal (the finer the better), one omce of powdered bitter almonds, and a sufficient quantity of honey to make a smooth paste, and apply this frequently.

The Bath.

Every human habitation should contain some convenience for a complete bath in water. In the long catalogue of diseases, says a well known physician, scarcely one can be named in the treatment of which a bath is useless.

To those blessed with good health, a bath gives thrift and growth to healthy functions, a brightness and delightful screnity, a clearness of mind and buoyancy of spirit. It is certainly a blessing to both mind and body.

For the mental worker it is a nerve tonic. A thorough application of water of proper temperature will calm and give tone to his whole system. The indeer laborer, who gets but a scarty supply of fresh air, needs a bath to obtain the skin invigorating elements of

Over Stimulation of Young Brains.

The practice of giving tea and coffee to young children cannot be too strongly condemned. Childbood is the period when nervous activity is very great. The brain is ever busy in receiving new impressions. Reflex action, co-ordination of the muscles, and the special senses are all under a constant ceurse of training. The nervous system is pushed to its utmost capacity, and long is the list of victims that follow its over stimmic tions. In little people nothing but harm can come from the use of such cerebral stimu lants as cen or coffee.

SOCIAL ETIQUETTE

Monners and Customs Practiced in Politic Society.

A gentleman always lifts his but when offering a service to a lady, whether he is not quainted with her or not. It may be, says one authority on the social eliquette of New York, the restoration of a dropped kerelsief r fan, the receiving of her money to pass it to the cash box of a car, the opening of her umbrella as she descends from a carriageall the same. He fifts it before or chiring the courtesy if possible. She bows, and, if she chooses, she also smiles her acknowledgment; but she does the latter faintly and does not speak. To say "Thank you" is not an excess of acknowledgment, but it has ceased to be etiquette.

When a gentleman accompanies a lady upon whom such an attention is bestowed, he always lifts his lat and says "Thank you." If it is in the giving up of a seat to the hady. he will not seat himself while the obliging stranger is still standing, but will call his attention to the first vacant place should be be unobservant of it.

A gentleman opens a door for a strange lady, holds it open with one hand and lifts his hat with the other while she passes through in advance of him. He always offers her the precedence, but he does it silently and without resting his gaze upon her, as if he would say: "You are a lady and I am a gentleman—I am pelife for both our sakes."

A gentleman always raises his but when he begs a lady's pardon for an inadvertence. whether he is known to her or not,

Graceful Speech.

The value of no other social accomplishment can be compared to that of a thorough knowledge of one's mother tongue. The most of us do more or less talking in the course of every one of our working hours, and we impress those that hear us, favorably or unfavorably-as far as our culture is concerned -according to the manner in which we express ourselves. How desirable it is, then, to cultivate all the graces of speech.

THE OHIO CENTENNIAL.

County Organization.

The coming Ohio Centennial is an event in which every "Buckeye" can participate. Ohio's wonderful growth will be fully shown; in this growth every part of the State is equally interested. To afford every part an opportunity, a county spirit of friendly competition will be encouraged. Every county should see that its material, educational and industrial industries are fully shown. In this county an efficient organization will be effected, and every part of the county will be asked to contribute its share towards century.

CONCERNING COAL

Many Matters of Much Interest.

A Pittsburg writer says: "The Columbus scales have been of vast benefit to be continued."

writes: "The recent cold snap has stimulated the local coal trade and an excellent business is reported for the season up to date. The Coal Dealers' Association was never stronger than at present and full prices are realized. The next raise in Anthracite coal is expected to be due about January 1st, but there is some doubt on the subject, owing to the disagreement as to the amount of the raise."

The Coal Trade Journal of this week says: "There are indications that the Conneilsville coke interest will form another 'pool' or organization--as was outlined in this column last week. Without the from delinquent subscribers. John, we Frick Company they cannot expect to do much, however, and every effort is now being brought to bear to have that conee n in. It is claimed by the producers inspector of mines, we are informed that | that in case any firm refuses to co-operate, the new syndicate will offer to take all the coke they produce and se'l it at the market price, the object being to mainfain prices and also wages."

The Independent for ISSS.

The daily and weekly edition of THE INDEPENDENT during the year 1888, will be improved as much as experience and increasing circulation will justify, the first making an especial effort to furnish home news to Stark county readers, while the latter will aim to be a high-class general newspaper.

The daily will place the local news in the hands of the reader promptly, and its contents can at all times be relied upon. Correspondents stationed in the near-by towns will assist the office force in making each edition a complete Stark county history. The general news department will be accurate and condensed, the dispatches being furnished by the United Press. The miscellaneous matter will be bright, and from the very best

The weekly will contain the cream of the Stark county news, consisting of Massillon affairs, court house matters, and real estate transfers; it will contain a complete summary of the happenings of the world in the week; it will contain an agricultural department, a scientific department, a house-keeper's and fashion department; it will contain correspondence, and timely illustrated articles, and an occasional continued story. It is selfevident that the issuance of the two editions makes it possible that each should be better than otherwise. The subscription price of the daily is $5.00 per year; the weekly $1.50 per year.

of a fuel supply in the Ohio valley is regarded by some as becoming a very serious one. the coul trade, not only here, but else- The long continued drought and the probawhere in the country, and they should bility of its continuance, with the small stocks of coal from Pittsburg, the main source of supply, is causing much anxiety among A Cleveland correspondent exultingly | those who fulled earlier in the winter to make provision.

There is no probability, however, of a coal famine, such as has been experienced in the past, owing to the supply from the Kentucky mines. Louisville consumes daily, upon en average, 70,000 bushels. Ordinarily by far the larger portion of this is from Pittsburg, but at present all of the dealers of the city together do not hold in stock more than 25,-000 bushels of Pittsburg coal, and it requires a ten foot rise in the river at Pittsburg to let the awaiting fleet of 10,000,000 bushels out.

More than half of this will come to Louisville, but the probability of a rise in the Ohio is small, good authorities expressing the belief that a freeze-up will soon occur which will delay relief from Pittsburg until some time in February. In the meantime the price of coal has advanced nearly 100 per cent, and the poor are suffering correspondingly. During the past week the railroads have brought to the city daily an average of 10,000 bushels, and the managers say that this can be increased sufficiently to supply the

Notwithstanding the statements of the railroad authorities, every coal dealer in the city is from four to seven days behind les orders. Summing up the situation, it will be seen that the circumstances demonstrate Louisville's good fortune in having within 125 miles are inexhastable supply of coal accessible to the railroads, and that the worst feature is the hardship to the poorer classes by the high prices which will probably go still higher, owing to the competition from Pittsburg being shut off.

King Kalakua's Veto.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 29.—Advices received by steamer Marisposa, which arrived from Sidney and Anckland via Honolulu today, report that King Kalakua has vetoed two bills passed by the Hawaiian legislature, one of which was to abolish the office of governors. The legislature denies the right of the king to use the veto power, and claims that one of the specific pledges given by Kalakua at the time of the revolution provided that he should not interfere with legislation. The reform legislature had a lengthy meeting and resolved to ask the king to reconsider the veloes. efforts at secrecy on the part of those intimately concerned, its contents have just come to light. Its provisions are so unique, romantic, that it reads more like fiction than the reality which it is. These are the facts:

the full consent of her parents were betrothed. Because of the maiden's youthfulof years; but when a year of this time had passed away she waked up to the discovery that what she had mistaken for love was but admiration and affection and asked to be released from her bond.

afterward she married happily and is still living in a certain town in her native state. The young Frenchman returned to Canada, and from thence went to northern Michigan and engaged in the lumber business in which he became very wealth. He remained unmarried, true to his first love until his death, which occurred but a few weeks ago. When his will was brought to light it was found that after a number of snug bequests to various persons the bulk of his wealth was bequenthed to her to woom, in his young manhood, he had been betrothed; but following are the queer and eccentric conditions on which she becomes possessor of this vast wealth: "That she, my devisee, the only woman ever loved by me, shall remain in her present position with patience and with no change in her life or manner of living for the space of seven years—the time of Jacob's service for Rachael-she shall then remove to my native province and abide one year.

Her husband will be a royal helper in ill these plans, as he is in the arcint acture of the home, the model of which together they are evolving. This fortune means also very generous support and gifts to the church of which they are both enthusiastic members.

One of the queerest provisions of the will is that: "She shall within a year after my death select a lawyer who shall at once enter upon his duty as guardian of this bequest and who shall be content to wait with her till seven years have passed, at the end of which time he shall receive the sum of $2,000 per year for his services, with an added $2,000 for interest and as a reward for his patience."

It is also said that the location of her home after she comes into possession of this great wealth is not yet decided upon, except that it will be in some town or city in her native "Hoosier"

UNITED LABOR PARTY.

Almost Certain to Put a National Ticket in the Field in 1888. New York, Dec. 27.-The Tribune says: It appears now almost certain that the views of Henry George, Dr. McGlynn and a few of the other prominent leaders of the United Labor party will prevail, and that a National convention will be called before those of the two great parties. Many of the leaders are in favor of holding the convention in Chicago, but the majority seem to think that New York would prove a more desirable place since this city is the party's great

There is little doubt that the ticket will be leaded by Henry George, and that Judge James G. Maguire, of San Francisco, will be the candidate for vice-president. Judge Maguire, it will be remembered, assisted the fabor party materially in the state campaign last fall. He is judge of the superior court, of San Francisco, and is known as a selfmade man. His parents were poor Irish emigrants. He learned the blacksmith trade, studying law at night, and during his leisure moments. In 1870 he was elected to the California legislature on the Democratic ticket and made a good record as an antimonopolist. His subsequent election to the judicial bench met with general approval owing to his acknowledged ability and honesty. About a year ago he formally withdrew from the Democratic ranks and pined the party of Mr. George.

Beheaded By the Cars.

Pittsburg, Dec. 27.—A distressing accilent occurred yesterday evening at the railroad crossing on Eighteenth street, South Side, this city. A workman named James Salomon quarreled with his wife and left the house in anger. His wife followed him, carrying her child in her arms, and their little son ran after, calling to his father to return. Just on the railroad crossing Salomon paused, looked back, was knocked down by a passing train, and his head was cut entirely off by the car wheels, the tragedy occurring in full view of the man's wife. The poor woman, nearly crazed with grief and horror, picked up the severed head, kissing it wildly and imploring torgiveness for quarreling. She was taken home by neighbors.

An Old Claim.

New York, Dec. 29.—The Weber claim to land in New York city, which rarned up yesterday at Dover, N. H., is not a new one. In 1879 it was brought forward by A. The American minister at The Hague found it necessary to officially announce the worthlessness of the claim as an agent of the claimants was swindling credulous Americans on the strength of it.
